"Each Gives His Best For The Good Of All"

The Suffolk High School motto sets a goal of endeavor that should receive the whole-hearted allegiance of every pupil. Individual growth follows as a natural result when a boy or girl puts his best thought and effort into every task undertaken. Suffolk High School expects nothing less than this from its pupils in athletic and literary competition and in class assignments.

A Suffolk High School pupil is expected to do his best not merely for his own advancement and glory but for the common welfare of all. Thus a pupil learns to put the interests of the whole school above purely selfish or group desire. If this motive can be made to govern activity in school, it may confidently be expected that in later years those who go forth from Suffolk High School will be able to identify their own interests with the highest welfare of community, state, and nation, and of mankind itself.

THE MASTER OF THE SHIP

A ship must have its Captain. An aeroplane must needs be guided by its pilot. A nation must have its king, its emperor, its president, or even its Mussolini. Every organization must have a guiding influence, whether for good or bad. A school must have its principal.

The ship with a careless captain in northern waters will crash into an iceberg; in southern waters it will not weather a typhoon. The aeroplane controlled by unskilled hands will make a faulty landing and crash into bits or burn into oblivion. The nation with a weak ruler will be led into wars, panics, and disaster. How good and comforting to be placed into strong, wise hands. What a priceless jewel to a school is a good principal!

Under his capable direction good is made better, and better is made best. The delinquent youth is given careful attention. All the students are brought together in their enthusiasm by his subtle supervision, and they coöperate in building a school, firmly founded. He deprives himself of personal pleasures and benefits to further the interests of the school. He places his very heart and soul in this work of moulding many young lives—this "Master of the Ship."

ON READING

To be a friend of reading is an inexhaustible source of pleasure. Reading is one of those things that is everyone's friend. It does not make the demands that some people think friendship gives them the privilege to. Always it is ready to entertain, to enlighten, and to comfort. The only trouble is that so few people have become acquainted with this friend.

Most people read either too much or not enough. There are those people who never pick up a book unless forced to. They cannot imagine the pleasure they are missing; pleasure not only in the sense of being entertained but of having learned something that can be stored up in the mind as food for thought. From books is gained all that knowledge which has been accumulated through all of the ages of civilization and without which every person is worse off for not having. Then there are the people who read incessantly. They read any and everything. This leads to a tendency to live too much in a world of dreams and make believe.

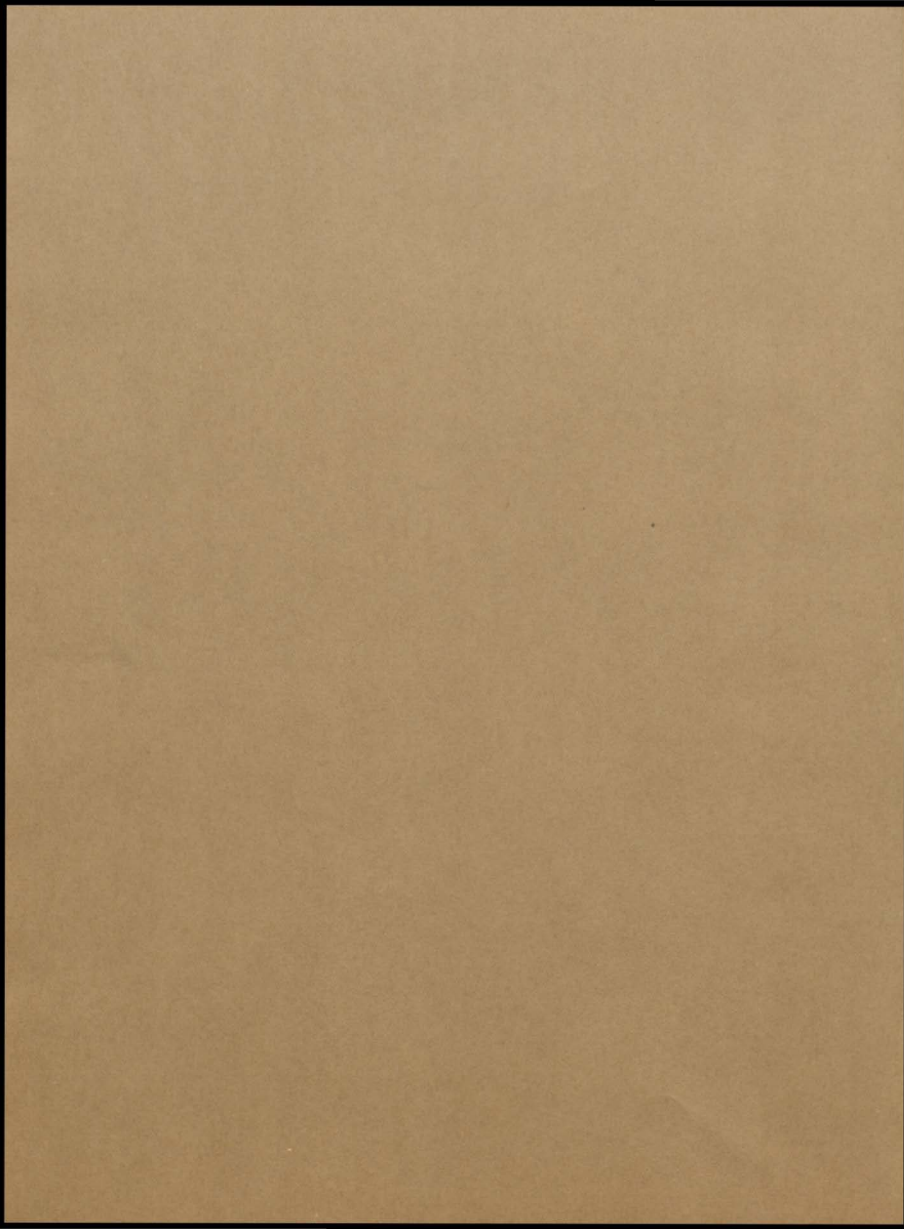

But there is another abuse of this friend reading. Some people read all books of one kind. This will be noticed especially among people of high school age. Here there is a great tendency to read only the books that were to entertain for a moment and then to be forgotten. This is the reason for the requirements of the history, government and English classes.

The English classes, especially, emphasize parallel reading. They attempt to cultivate a real love for reading by helping the pupil to become better acquainted with all types of literature, modern works, the classics, novels short stories, poems, biographies, and essays.

On September ninth, a new Senior Class, the Class of Nineteen Hundred Thirty-Six, entered upon its last year in Suffolk High School. This last year has been a full and memorable one for each member of the class. The Seniors have been outstanding in all activities of the school, and have filled their positions as leaders. A meeting of the Senior Class was held early in the year, and at that time the Seniors elected ANNE CROSS their president. The other officers chosen were BOB DARDEN, vice-president; POLLY PINNER, secretary, and BETTY BUTLER, treasurer. The Senior Class ring was then selected from several samples by a committee composed of the class officers together with WILLIAM HENRY SHEFFIELD and STEDMAN EURE. The ring this year is different from that of any other graduating class. The crest is an Old English "S" in gold; the shanks bear a picture of Suffolk High School with the school motto and the seal and motto of the State of Virginia.

BOB EASON was elected President of the Student Senate by popular vote of the entire school, thus attaining the highest honor the Student body is capable of conferring. He has successfully carried on the work of the organization ably assisted by HELEN CLARKE, Secretary of the Senate for the year. OSCAR PARKER, Senior Representative, and ANNE CROSS, Senior President have served efficiently on the Ways and Means Committee. Nine members of the Senior Class were on Suffolk High's football team. They helped to win for the school not only the Class "B" Championship but also the reputation of consistent good sportsmanship. Those players were MAYNARD JOHNSON, Captain of the team, URIAH COULBOURN, BOB EASON, NAT EURE, THORNTON HASLETT, BILLY HOLLAND, BILL JOHNSON, WILLIAM HENRY SHEFFIELD, and FRED WAGNER. At the organization of the Booster's Club on October 31st, URIAH COULBOURN was elected president with NAT EURE as

TONY HASLETT captained the team and NAT EURE acted as manager for the boys. ELEANOR OLIVER and BETTY BUTLER were captain and manager respectively for the girls. Those playing their last games for the school were: TONY HASLETT, JOE BERMAN, and BOB EASON; RACHEL CROCKER, ELEANOR OLIVER, MARJORIE NIMMO, POLLY PINNER, and ELSIE WARRINGTON. It has been under the direction of NELLIE PINNER, editor-in-chief; ANNE CROSS, managing editor; and BETTY BUTLER, news editor. The circulation of the paper has been under the supervision of POLLY PINNER. SARA JACKSON, ELSIE BARNES, ANN BLANCHARD, and RUDOLPH MEHALKO, have faithfully served the staff as typists.

On March 24th measurements were taken for caps and gowns—the signal that the career of the Class of '36 was drawing to a close.

An operetta, "MISS CHERRYBLOSSOM," was presented by the Glee Club on March 27th. The title role was sung by ELSIE WARRING-

HARRIET CORBITT, Secretary

DORRIS WITHERS, Treasurer

Among the Junior constellations there flashed and shone those more brilliant lights against the background of the less brilliant, but steady and never changing stars.

Flashing suddenly across the heavens, Will Gibson, who took the masculine lead in the spring dramatic production, "Merton of the Movies," made a rocket-like rise to fame.

Earlier in the spring with the presentation of the operetta, "Miss Cherry-blossom," by the Glee Club, Ernest Wilkins shone brightly, displaying his young tenor in its best form in the masculine lead.

Always appearing in her regular place radiantly gleaming, Mildred Howerton brought honor to her Alma Mater and to her own name for her work on the school debating team, the newspaper, and in dramatics.

Another, Frances Stallings, faithfully appeared in her place. She served as make-Up Editor of the Peanut Picker and as photographic Editor of the Peanut.

Shining equally as bright was Mary Cross Jordan, to whom the financial success of the Peanut Picker was largely due.

In the Peanut Picker constellation we find also the steady gleam from Jack Palmer's weekly column, the bright twinkle of Tony Hobb's humor, and a large cluster of others too numerous to name here.

The sports constellations glittered with juniors: six lettermen in football, with Edward Wills as the 1936 captain shining most brilliantly; five boys receiving basketball letters, with John Henry Pearce as 1936-37 captain; five girls who received letters for an undefeated season; three speedy men on the track team, with J. R. Robertson winning a first place in the state meet; and six lettermen on the baseball team. The most consistently brilliant star in sports was Arthur Jones, who received letters in football, basketball, baseball, and track.

Circle and Triangle Awards light the heavens of Suffolk High School with their brilliance. Of these, there are nine juniors: Mildred Howerton and Frances Stallings winning Circles, and Mary Cross Jordan, Earl Moore, Elsie Berry Yates, Billy Lyon, Lyman Brothers, Dorris Withers, and William Gibson winning Triangles.

Innumerable other stars faithfully gave their light: Bill Cross, Elizabeth Norfleet, Vivian Zienke, Margaret Riddick, Ernest Wilkins, and Sara Phillips under whose leadership the most anticipated event of the year—the Junior-Senior Reception—was made possible; the entire Junior Class, one and all, which stood back of each of these and with its cooperation helped them on to greater achievements; and last, but not dimmest, that diligent, bright, and constant star, the president of the Junior Class—Betsy Kendrick.

SCENES IN SUFFOLK HIGH SCHOOL CLASSROOMS

The Commercial Department, of which this typing class is a unit, is under the direction of Miss Kathryn Lingo. The department includes classes in Business Law, Bookkeeping, and Short-hand. About ten students each year receive Commercial diplomas.

The Domestic Science Department, including classes in Foods, Clothing, Dietetics, Home Nursing, and Home Management, is directed by Miss Mary Stallings. The Foods class is pictured here.

This Geography Class is a part of the Social Science Department, in which the pupils study the nations of the world from economic, agricultural, industrial, and commercial standpoints. Miss Gladys Yates is demonstrating with the aid of a products map made by the class.

THE LIBRARY

Slender heels tap
Down the corridor;
Square heels of Adolescent manliness shuffle
Down the corridor;
Soft padding steps,
Long striding paces,
Down the corridor
To the sacred precinct of the school—
The Library.

Two rooms
Of cream-color walls,
And shelves with books—
Books tattered and torn by long usage,
Books stiff and dignified
With hoards of knowledge
For young, eager minds,
Books with famous and magic names
Imprinted on their bindings
And perhaps on the flyleaf in scrawling hand—

"To Jack—on his fourteenth birthday"...
Dusty squares of sun rays streaming
Through the southeast windows
In the morning;
And on the sill
A Buddha formed into a vase
Holding a dormant flower bulb,
And a camel, holding on his back
More sleeping bulbs;
And the more remote northeast windows

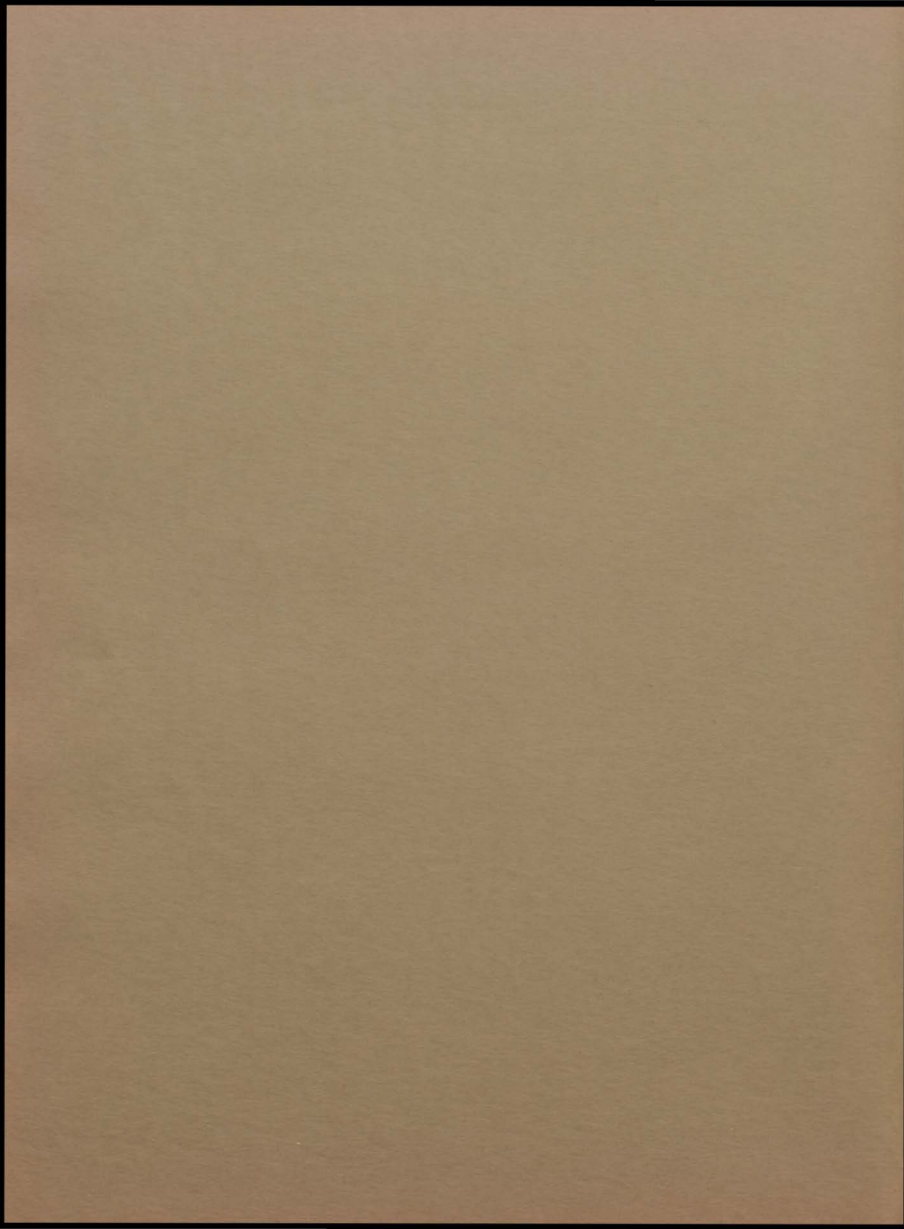

Viewing the graveled drive below,
And the grassy ravine. . . .
Four oblong tables of oak,
Around them chairs, sitting primly,
Placed with neat precision;
Or if in use, ranging in distorted lines,
And in them students slouched
With puzzled frowns,
Or slyly giggling because they could no longer

Hold in their youthful mirth
Even though forbidden with that stern word,
"Silence."

Or sitting, elbows placed on table,
With dreams shadowing their eyes
And on the panelwork, given new life
With fresh brown paint,
One of Corot's masterpieces—
Mystical, dewy, fresh, yet vague—
Given by a class now two years gone
With the hope of being remembered;
And brown plaques of honor—
One for tennis,
Another for public speaking,
Yet another for debating,
And all this on silver strips
With the name of a student, the loyal son of the school,
Or maybe a daughter,
Engraved thereon

The Student Senate was organized in 1927 for the purpose of regulating extra-curricular activities. This year, for the first time, a committee on Ways and Means was appointed whose duty consisted of presenting business to the Senate in true parliamentary form. Working in this way the Senate instituted a number of worthwhile projects.

It presented Honor Awards to those pupils who have been outstanding in participation in school activities and to those who rendered some valuable service to the school in some specialized field. The Senate sponsored a patron's night at which time the parents were invited to school so that they might be brought into closer contact with the teachers and with school life of their children. An intra-mural debating team was also sponsored, which enabled the school to present experienced candidates for the state contest debates. The organization is responsible for the plan now in vogue of having one assembly per week.

This year's routine business included the granting of a charter to the newly formed Dramatic Club and the drafting of several sets of resolutions congratulating various organizations on their fine work.

Of great value to the Student Senate in carrying out its plans and schemes, is the Boosters Club whose membership consists of those students holding Activities Tickets. This is the largest club in the school and one whose support is absolutely essential for the success of any enterprise.

The Peanut Picker

This year, for the first time in her history, Suffolk High School has had an independent newspaper. Up until 1936 all school news was confined to a weekly page in THE SUFFOLK NEWS-HERALD.

At the beginning of the year, it was decided that the students might have both a newspaper and an annual on condition that the two publications work on a co-operative basis. This meant that the newspaper would have to be financed in such a manner as to assure the publication of the yearbook without outside assistance. Special commendation is due the Advertising Staff of the paper for having been able to carry out this plan. Through advertisements alone, all expenses contingent upon the publication of the paper have been met—thus enabling the receipts from the paper's circulation to be held in reserve for the yearbook. One desirable feature of this plan has been that of having to call upon the public to support only one publication during the year.

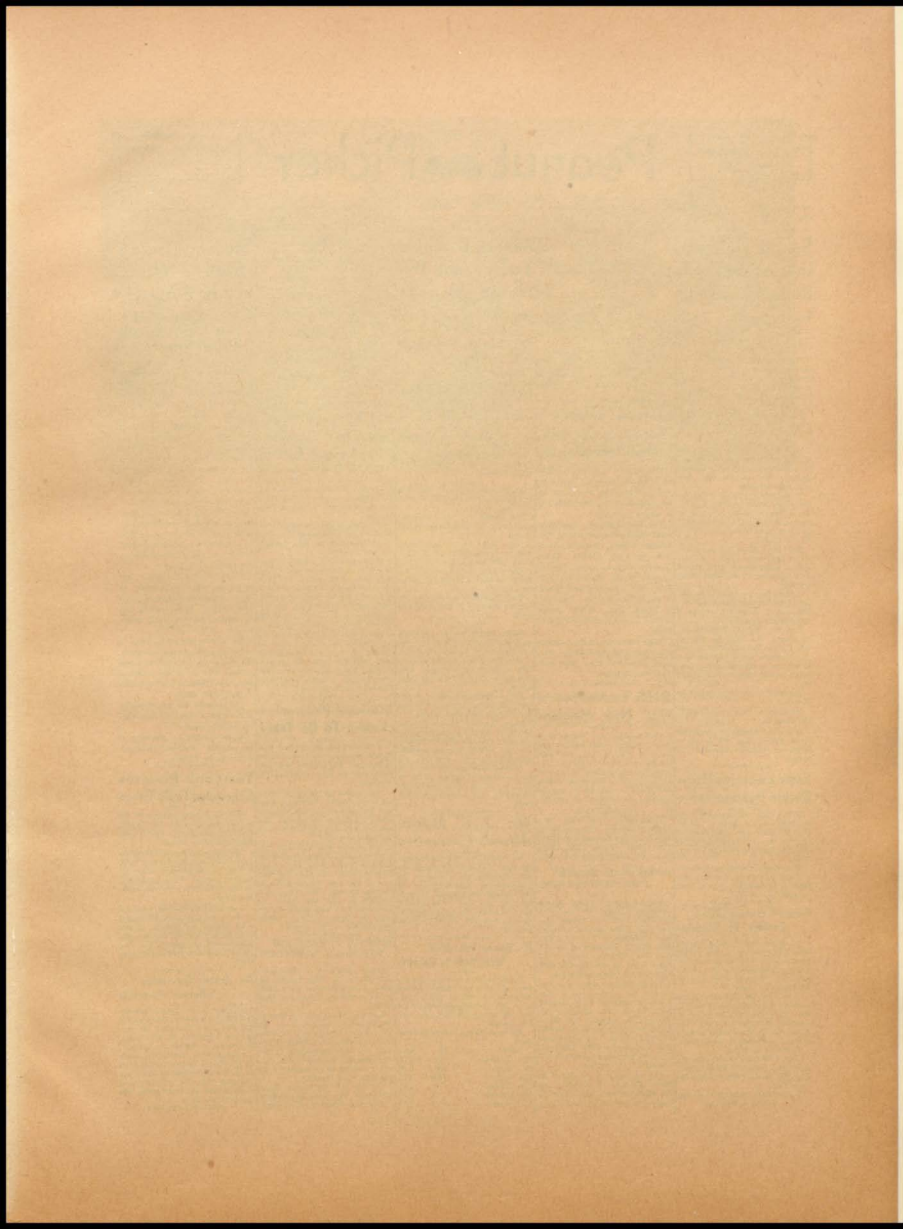

The publishing of an independent PEANUT PICKER caused new difficulties to arise. Never before had the business side of a newspaper demanded consideration. In order to cope with this new situation, two staffs were organized; an editorial staff and a business staff.

The editorial or news staff was composed of an Editorial Board of eight members and about twenty reporters. The duties of this staff have been to make assignments, oversee the writing of all copy, compose headlines and lay out a dummy.

The duties of the Business Staff have already been mentioned with the exception of those pertaining to the Circulation Department whose responsibility it is to distribute the papers each Friday afternoon to the homerooms and, also, to take care of the out-of-town mailing list.

Such an undertaking as the publishing of this newspaper has been made possible only by the splendid cooperation shown by the Student Body of Suffolk High School.

Suffolk Hi Gets Invitation From Roanoke College

Tau Kappa Alpha Invites Debating Team To Contest In March

The Suffolk High Debating Team has been invited to enter the second annual state wide Debating and Afro-American Speaking Tournament at Roanoke College Chapel in Tau Kappa Alpha.

The Question for Debate is: "Resolved, That intercollegiate athletics in High Schools should be discontinued."

Each debater will be allowed ten minutes for main speech and five minutes for rebuttal. After-dinner speakers must not use more than thirty-eight minutes.

A registration fee of $1.50 for each High School entering must be sent to Edward Dowdy, President of the Roanoke Chapter of the Tau Kappa Alpha, upon formal acceptance of the invitation.

Each High School is urged to enter an affirmative and a negative team of either boys or girls, as well as a contestant in the Afro-American speaking.

A silver cup is awarded to the winner of the Debating contest. Another cup is awarded to winner of Afro-American Speaking.

Last year Suffolk High entered the contest, and while she did not win, she was the only school to have an affirmative and a negative team to win out in the semi-finals. Last year's debating teams were composed of:

Negative: Anne Cross and Oscar Parker.

Affirmative: Emily Cross and Edwin Ferguson.

It is very uncertain as to whether or not Suffolk High will be able to accept the invitation this season of finances.

Latin Examinations Decide Representative

During test week competitive examinations will be given in each of Miss Mitchell's four Latin classes to determine the Suffolk High Latin team representatives for the Latin Tournament.

These contests, which are held annually at the College of William and Mary in Williamsburg, will be held on April 18, this year.

Gruen Company Offers Contest To Students

An opportunity is open for every high school student to win a cash prize or a Gruen wrist watch. The requirement is to write an essay of not more than 250 words on "The Importance of Time."

There will be fifty-three prizes awarded and duplicate in case of tie. All entries must be mailed by midnight of March 15, 1936. The winner will be given notice directly and also announced over the radio. Prizes are as follows:

First, $500 Cash award to the student whose entry is judged the best, plus $500 to the school attended by the winner.

Second, $250, and the same cash prize.

The question for debate was "Resolved, That intercollegiate Athletics be abolished from Virginia High Schools." The affirmative side advanced the argument that intercollegiate Athletics have all the benefits of intercollegiate.

The negative team has a definite advantage in the argument. The affirmative team will debate the Senior affirmative on March 4, and the negative team will debate the Senior negative on March 11.

S.H.S. Principal Goes To Charlottesville For League Council

Tomorrow the Legislative Council of the Virginia Literary and Athletic League will meet at the University of Virginia. At this morning's meeting will be made for the annual state contest.

Mr. Chase, Chairman of District 10 of Virginia, will attend this council, accompanied by Mr. Hawkins and Mr. Smith.

The purpose of this council, in general, is to determine the policies and regulations of the league. The business to be discussed will consist mainly of questions for changing legislation, for selecting a debate question for next year, and for changing the method for electing the district.

In the state of Virginia there are ten districts, two of which are of Class B, and the other eight are of Class A.

Craddock, together with Churchill, Gledhill, Kempsville, Morrison, Coker, Portlick, Norwice, and South Norfolk, is in District 10.

Individual Pictures For Juniors To Be Taken

A Junior Class meeting was held Monday during activity period in the auditorium. The meeting was presided over by Harry Kendrick, the president.

The purpose for calling the meeting was to decide whether the Juniors preferred to have individual or group pictures in the annual.

The vote was overwhelmingly in favor of individual pictures.

The Juniors were told that the pictures would not be taken until the money had been given to the home room treasurer. The home room treasurer then turned over the money to the class treasurer. The pictures will probably be taken next week.

An appointment for each person will be made by Frances Stallings, photograph editor of "The Peanut."

The Club began with seventeen charter members from whom an executive board consisting of the president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer was elected. Committees have also been appointed for ordering and reading plays. Since the first meeting four new members, who fill all the qualifications, have been voted into the club. The Club meets every Thursday during Activity Period.

At one of the early meetings of the year, Miss Virginia Jay, a teacher in the Jefferson School, spoke to the Club. Miss Jay, who has had special training in dramatics, kindly offered her assistance in any undertaking of The Players. Peanut Pepys's Diary

Sept. 9—I awoke this morning with foreboding that centered around the pit of my stomach. Soon attributed that feeling to the fact that on this day the doors of the school did open, whereupon I dashed to my shower and did shiver under it. Then to school, arriving fifteen minutes late, and once there found myself surrounded with the usual bustle and uproar. Free after 10:30 o'clock.

Sept. 20—There being a fine display of school spirit demonstrated among the scholars, I myself became enthused and trudged amid dust, humanity, and traffic to the League Park to there witness the Peanut Eleven defeat Oceana, the final score being 30-0. The enthusiasts spurred on the players, and methinks our Mr. Chase is pleased greatly with the opening game of this football season.

Oct. 18—There was great excitement among the scholars today in anticipation of the first issue of the "Peanut Picker." We are in reality "captain of our own ship," now that we do publish a separate and independent publication. Everyone was truly pleased with this first issue, including Miss Johnson, its hardworking sponsor.

Oct. 31—To assembly this morning to the organization of the Booster's Club of which Uriah Coulbourn was elected president amid much of noise and school spirit. A goodly number was there, which bodes it well for the school this year, if they carry out the purposes of this organization.

Nov. 15—All this night in observing the actions of parents in school, and I did notice that they became quite as excited and flustered as do their offsprings. All plans went off well, and everyone was highly interested and entertained with the activities of the school. A highly successful evening for the school.

Nov. 28-Dec. 1—I did try to remain sober today and remember that this season is one in which to be thankful for my many blessings. However, I felt most hilarious, as I do always at the thought of a holiday.

Nov. 30—There was great joy and much of noise today when Suffolk did capture the Virginia Class B football championship, also winning the Eastern Championship title for the second consecutive year, by defeating Clifton Forge 12-0. Dance tonight for victors. And a good time was had by all.

Dec. 13—Motored down to Chuckatuck High School to observe the opening basketball game of the season, which had to be played on the Chuckatuck gymnasium on account of the fire that hath damaged our own gym. Suffolk did overwhelm the Norview boys and girls, the high scorers being, in the girls' game, Kitty Baines, and in the boys' game, "Feets" Pearce. Motored home. Then to bed.

Dec. 20.—Christmas hath crept into the very air. There is a festive feeling in the atmosphere, which this morning rang with wishes for a gladsome Christmas season. Half-day session at school. The holidays hath begun!

Jan. 6—Once more to school. I felt very dull and did loath to begin work again. Taught through, the weather being very bitter.

Jan. 24—Everybody hath fulfilled his share of cramming for this season's exams, and doth walk around preoccupied and frowning. I remained at home this morning, having study period, and to school in the afternoon for Latin exam.

Mar. 6—Did play Kempsville tonight and won a double victory. This game doth end the basketball season. A successful season with fourteen wins and seven losses, and the losses hath been taken in good spirit.

Mar. 27—On foot to school tonight despite the threatening weather, and once there and settled into my seat, allowed myself to enjoy fully the remarkable sweet soprano of Elsie Warrington opposite that great lover and wonderful tenor, Ernest Wilkins. Truly, a brilliant affair. The work of the Glee Club, of Mrs. Seward, Miss Hurff and Miss Yates were well rewarded, methinks.

April 3—News with the return of the Suffolk nine from South Norfolk that they were defeated 13-1 in the opening game of the baseball season.

April 10-14—Everybody now thinks on new clothes and corsages and freedom from the routine—

April 23—I rose early and donned my Easter suit, having not lately worn any other suit, but that one. Came eight o'clock, Anne Parker looted several times, whereupon I dashed down the stairs and out the door. Then to Norfolk to the District X meet of the Virginia Literary and Athletic League. Everyone was justly happy when Suffolk placed first in almost each event. To lunch and then to show. Home at six. Tired . . . happy.

May 1—That bright and aspiring lad, William Gibson, did show himself worthy of the much praise bestowed upon him for his portrayal of that movie-struck lad, Merton, in the spring play. The supporting cast being excellent also. This hath proved what that diligent, dynamic director, Miss Margaret Daughtrey, can do, with able assistance. To bed at 12 o'clock.

May 8-9—(Friday)—Did arrive at Charlottesville at 12:30 o'clock. After much stirabout we were settled in a boarding house, and there unpacked. Several contestants to their respective contests. Dance tonight. (Saturday)—I arose earlier than I did expect after last night, and did spend the morning in many ways. At the track field this afternoon and was duly enthused when "Preacher" Robertson dashed in for first place in the Class B low hurdles. He is now a hero, and will be lionized by the ladies, I imagine. Supped in Richmond. Home again tonight at 12:30 o'clock.

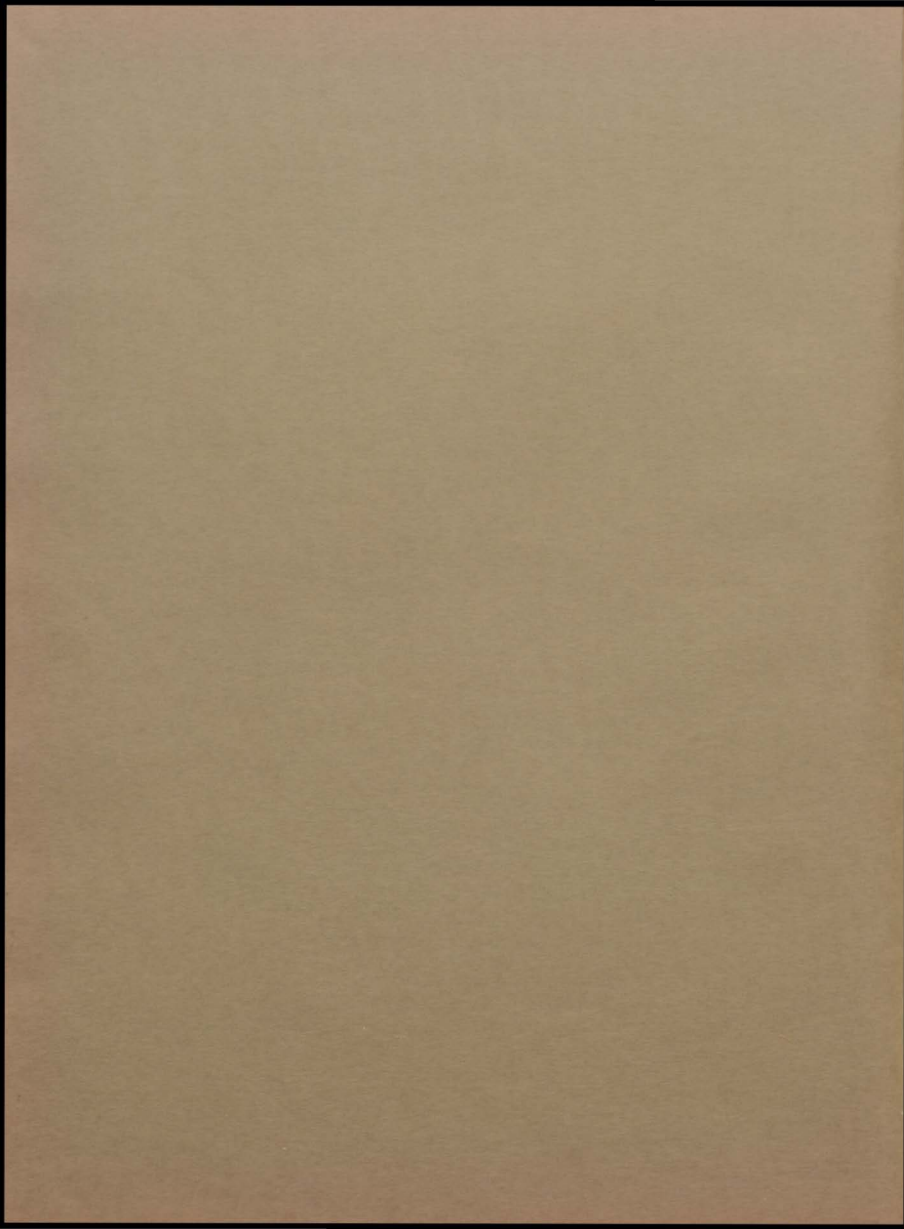

May 22—To the Junior-Senior tonight. A pleasant sight of slim young girls in white and pink, green and blue, and manly young men; a babble of young voices and young laughter and good humor did please my ears.

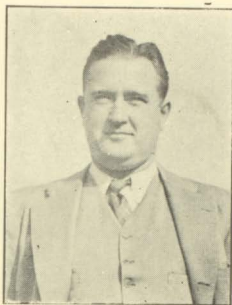

June 1—There is no time for idling. Again I observe and practice frantic last-minute cramming for examination.

June 5—The school hath closed its doors again except to those unfortunates who will attend for four weeks this honorable institution.

Suffolk High School holds the honor of being the first State Class B Champion in football in Virginia. In the past, the Class B High Schools have been divided into two sections—East and West. In the East, Suffolk has held the championship for the past two seasons; in the West, Clifton Forge has held the championship for four seasons. This year these two teams were given an opportunity to play for the State Championship.

Clifton Forge came to Suffolk for this final game about the last of November. The team returned to the mountains with a 12-0 defeat loudly praising the sportsmanship displayed by the Suffolk team and supporters.

Suffolk High School looks back with pride on its 1935-1936 football season.

*Bill Johnson scored the most points of any player in the high schools in the eastern division of Virginia
